SLUGGER IN GOOD TRIM

Gets Great Reception Upon His Arrival in Camp-Covers First Base.

By CHARLES A. TAYLOR.

New ORLEANS, La., March 10 .- Babe Ruth arrived here from Hot Springs at 11 o'clock this morning and exfence at Heinmann Park. This particular fence is 456 feet from the home plate and is fifteen feet high. Accordng to Johnnie Dobbs, manager of the Orleans club, who saw the mighty blow struck, no man had ever turned this trick before. When the the grandstand jumped up on their seats and raised a terrific din. which made the Babe grin all over.

There is no doubt about it, the slugging king is ready for business right now. He tipped the scales in the club house at 217 pounds, which is some fifeported at camp last year. After the patting practice the Babe worked out at first base and whipped the ball around the diamond in lively fashion. Much to Manager Huggins that he was slated play first base in the exhibition mes. Babe always did like to prance were all waiting for the coming of the chief of swatters. That there is going to be some real life in the camp from now on was indicated most conclusively by the flock of fans that watched the practice at the ball park to-day. They were hoping against hope that Ruth would favor them with his presence and he did. They then besought him to knock the ball out of the lot and in this desire too they were gratified. The Babe is certainly accommodating.

Other arrivals to-day were Waite Hoyt and Mrs. Hoyt. Everett Scott, the new shortstop, and Carl Mays with his "submarine" ball. The entire Yankee contingent will be here by Monday, the missing ones at present being Wally Schang and Bob Shawkey, who are still at Hot Springs. SPRING.

Comrade, perhaps we may not know The coming of another spring; Then let us plan our minutes so Each hour is worth remembering.

WASHINGTON.

Clark Griffith always has had the good of the country at heart. He has put the welfare of the nation before his own. He realized that if he ever developed a pennant winning team in Washington the voters probably would be without those stirring romances issued in booklet form by the various departments and that neither would they get their proper allowance of seed. What clerk could be expected to stay in licking gummed envelopes when Griffith's men were out licking the Yankees or the Indians? ALBANY, March 10 .- August Belmon predicted to-day that there would be an end of breeding thoroughbred an end of breeding thoroughbred horses in this State if a tax is put on racing associations. He came to Albany to oppose the Pitcher-Betts bill, imposing a six per cent. tax on the gross receipts of race tracks before the Senate Taxation and Retrenchment Committee. The real purpose of the race tracks was the breeding of horses, and the proposed tax would wipe out racing, he said.

Mr. Belmont denied the statement of Assemblyman Charles H. Betts, one of the introducers of the bill, that the racing associations had agreed to a

But this year some people fear that Griff may cut the thing a little fine His team may get away from him and furnish such opposition that the justices may be quarreling with decisions of the umpires instead of making decisions of their own, and the heads of departments worrying more about box sions of their own, and the heads of departments worrying more about box scores than budgets. Already the Old Fox has dug up a couple of rookle pitchers who promise to scatter devastation among the ranks of visiting batters. And then he has Peckinpaugh. If Washington should happen to beat New York out of a pennant Peck's stifled laughter couldn't be heard further than Babe Ruth says that he has five years of big league baseball ahead of him. Less, so far, some thirty days.

It is stated that Arthur Fletcher will play second base for the Phillies this season. Fletcher should do well at that sack. He always could cover ground to his left easier than to his right.

As truth you all may take it-For it's plain-That life is what you make it-

At least it might be true if it wasn't that life is frequently what other people make it for you.

Decoration Day less than 8,000 made bets.

R. T. Wilson, Jr., of the Saratoga Racing Association, during the hearing fleatedly asked Assemblyman Betts why he did not propose a tax on bridge whist. He said that more money was bet on that game in this State every day than on all the race tracks.

Mr. Betts and Assemblyman Cuvillier were the only ones who appeared for the bill. Mr. Betts said that he had read that this year and last year were the most successful in the history of racing and that he believed the racing associations should help pay some of the State's after war debts. Assemblyman Cuvillier insisted that the racing associations were in the business for making money and that the talk of breeding horses was all "bunk."

Others who appeared against the bill were John H. Rogan of the Empire City Track, William C. Courtney of the Aqueduct Track, and W. G. Street of the Metropolitan Jockey Club. A pitching staff consisting of such men as Adams, Cooper, Hamilton, Zinn, Carlson, Morrison, Yellowhorse and a couple more would make Pittsburgh a formidable team even if it didn't have Maranville, Grimm and several other noted athletes to aid the boxmen.

For some time they had everything at the training came of the Chicago White Sox except the players. Perhaps the boys couldn't find Seguin on
